Reviewers' comments:

Reviewer #1:

The topic is interesting and the approach of dynamic systems could be novel if they work more

The paper is organized in a logical and appropriate format .

The paper should be grounded on much more theory. What is the current theory? What is the theory the author bases his/her paper on? Why is the author using this theory and not another one? Why do you use the Dynamic Capabilities of Sensing, Learning and Integrating? The fourth paragraph of the literature review concludes nothing.

Why is your topic relevant to academics and managers? What is the theoretical and practical contribution? How does your paper contribute to the literature? The author needs to clearly articulate this in the introduction and provide more details in the conclusion section.

The literature review is too vague and does not provide theoretical background for the research. It is not clear what is the use of simulation models contributes to the advance of research on dynamic capabilities.
