I reformulated the phrase as it follows:

The observation method consists in swimming at a constant speed along the 50 m line transect in 3 and 10 m depth and counting fish encountered within 2.5 meters on each side and 5 meters above the transect, according to English et al (1997) and Hill & Wilkinson (2004).

Please provide the number of pages for:

Dear Dr. Eniko Kovacs ,

Thank you for your correction.

I would say that the visual census method that I conducted was following English and Hill & Wilkinson.

Therefore, probably it is better to state as follows:

"The observation method is following English et al. (1997) and Hill & Wilkinson (2004) as swimming at a constant speed along the 50 m line transect in 3 and 10 m depth and counting fish encountered within 2.5 meters on each side and 5 meters above the transect".

Hope this makes sense. What do you think? thank you and I am waiting forward to hear from you.

Dear Dr. Hamzah,

Thank you for your e-mail.

The question here was: why any references at all? Isn't this the description of your work? Please clarify what exactly in the following phrase comes from the references?

"During the observation, divers swam at a constant speed along the 50 m line transect in 3 and 10 m depth and counting fish encountered within 2.5 meters on each side and 5 meters above the transect (English et al 1997; Hill & Wilkinson 2004).[\[WU1\]](#)

[\[WU1\]](#)Why the references? (English et al 1997; Hill & Wilkinson 2004)?

Dear Dr. Hamzah,

Regarding your manuscript submitted to AACL Bioflux, the editorial team have some requests prior to acceptance (please see the attachment).

Please note: Always operate corrections/additions (or deletions) in the manuscript we are sending you, by highlighting with a bright color (for an easy identification). We never work on the manuscript you send back, just identify the corrections and operate them on our document (to avoid any undesirable accidental operations like changed page set up, otherwise the editors have to start all the work from the beginning, and we cannot ask them to re-check every manuscript word by word to identify unmarked modifications).

Thank you for understanding!

Kind regards,
Eniko Kovacs
